

Dr. Balázs Bánhegyi graduated from the Budapest University of Technology and Economics as an applied physicist. After almost a decade of fundamental research, he is now an application engineer at SciEngineer, primarily working on the development of physical simulations in COMSOL Multiphysics for various applications ranging from electromagnetism to acoustics and hydrogeology.